1 THE COURT: This is People versus Rainbolt, file
2 number 14-64458. The Court has before it a motion to 3 suppress a statement given by the Defendant with regard to 4 an encounter he had with the alleged victim in this case.
5 I believe it was four years prior to the alleged conduct 6 that gave rise to the Information in this case. The 7 contention of the defense, as I understand it, is it's 8 irrelevant and the Plaintiff has responded with a 404(B) 9 notice and a response that it is, indeed, relevant and not 10 outweighed by any prejudice, so Ms. Baker, it's your 11 motion. If you'd like to comment, you may.

12 MS. BAKER: Yes, your Honor, I would just note
13 that we received the notice regarding the 404(B) in 768.27
14 on Friday. I didn't reali -- at least I think that's what 15 the proof of service indicates. I object to the inclusion 16 of the polygraph as an exhibit to these particular motions 17 or the notices that was filed by the People. I think that 18 is not admissible under any circumstance, not even as some 19 attachment to a notice that does not complain -- contain 20 any statement by my client outside of the polygraph
21 results, and the polygraph results in this particular case 22 could have been removed from the documents that were 23 submitted and I think that it was selectively added in,
24 and I would move that it be stricken from the Court
25 documents as well.

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 Additionally, I would note that most of the 2 issues are addressed in our brief, even though there was 3 no notice regarding the 404(B) or 768.27, and I think that 4 we anticipated there might be something like that filed in 5 our analysis. Mr. Oatmen from our office did write that 6 brief, and I think he points out quite well the status of 7 the law in this way and especially the application of 8 Watkins to this type of evidence. I would, again, also 9 point out that description of an act involving the same 10 victim and my client involves an accidental or an 11 incidental touching by the victim of him after he had been 12 woken up and I think any reference to the erection 13 disregards the idea that an erection is a largely 14 involuntary response under the circumstances, does not 15 show that he had a sexual interest in the complainant.
16 Furthermore, it's more similar in the description that the 17 People's Exhibit A attached to their brief, People v
18 Novak, where the court found that there was insufficient
19 similarity between the 404(B) acts and the charged act 20 because the charged act involved penetration and the 21 404(B) acts involved no penetration or any attempt at 22 penetration. So I think that that could be pers -- as 23 persuasive eviden -- or persuasive authority to further 24 preclude this particular statement by my client regarding 25 this interaction with his daughter.

Mills Court Reporting, 1615 Sunset, N Muskegon, MI 49445 231-744-6823

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 THE COURT: Which case was that that you just --

2 MS. BAKER: That's People v Novak that the People
3 supplied with their brief.

4 THE COURT: Oh, okay, yeah. The Novak, the one 5 that was attached to the --

6 MS. BAKER: Correct. Now they do say that the 7 sex manual could come in because it showed that that 8 defendant had an interest in sex with minors, but it did 9 further say that the acts involving his granddaughters 10 that they were proposing -- or that they did introduce at 11 trial did not involve sexual penetration so it was 12 dissimilar to the acts that were involved in the case
13 charged. So I think that we have a very similar fact 14 pattern with respect to that.

15 Again, I -- the offer is that evidence is to 16 show intent. I don't think that you can take an 17 accidental touching and change it -- an accidental or an 18 incidental touching by the victim of my client and show 19 that it's his intent to have sex or sexual intercourse 20 with this victim, so I think that that's a -- that is not 21 proper purpose. Furthermore, there's no scheme, plan, or 22 system in doing this act in that this is something that 23 occurred approximately four years before this incident, 24 three or four years before the incident that's alleged in 25 the Complaint because she testified at the prelim that

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 that happened in 2002. His statement was that about four 2 years before 2013 this incident with the victim occurred.
3 So I think that the -- there's no common scheme, plan, or 4 system shown here. Additionally it's not penetration from 5 the 2009 incident. Furthermore, I don't think it shows 6 motive or opportunity. Motive is an -- is the 7 inducement --

8 THE COURT: Well, that's what they're claiming.

9 MS. BAKER: Right.

10 THE COURT: That's -- I think that's the big -- 11 big thrust of the -- I don't want to steal your thunder.
12 The People's position is this is evidence of motive, that 13 he was somehow -- he was sexually attracted to his 14 daughter and, therefore, when he got the opportunity to 15 fulfill his sexual attraction he took it; right?

16 MS. JOHNSON: Yes.

17 THE COURT: Go ahead.

18 MS. BAKER: Well, your Honor, I don't think that 19 this particular act shows that and I think that it's -- I 20 mean the motive is an inducement to -- or for doing some 21 act as the case law has established. I think that it's 22 quite a leap to go from a 2009 accidental and incidental 23 contact to say that three or four years later he did this 24 when there's not a proximal, temporal relationship between 25 these two acts. It's not like he only had contact with

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 her during those two incidents so that the next time he 2 had ti -- he had an opportunity he did it? It just is 3 beyond quite belief, your Honor, to say that he waited for 4 three or four years to act on that particular, I guess, 5 emotion. I don't know I can state exactly what that -- 6 what that would be. And I would also point out that there
7 is no other evidence of this act other than his statement 8 regarding it. There's no other witnesses. Not even the 9 victim indicates that this occurred. So I think 10 there's --

11 THE COURT: You mean that -- wait a minute. When 12 you say not the victim, you mean she denies that occurred?
13 I didn't --

14 MS. BAKER: She was asked if there was any other 15 sexual contact with him and she said no. I would also -- 16 I think that there's some differences of opinion about the 17 specific language that is used during Mr. --

18 THE COURT: Was this at the prelim?

19 MS. BAKER: Her testimony.

20 THE COURT: Was this at the prelim where she said
21 there was no other sexual contact?

22 MS. BAKER: No, I believe that was at the -- when 23 she was interviewed by Child Protective Services.

24 THE COURT: Oh, okay. Go ahead.

25 MS. BAKER: Okay. I think there's an indication

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 in the People's brief that the victim said that she 2 straddled him and that he indicated that during his 3 statement, but I made my notes, this was a recorded 4 interview of my client. I reviewed that particular 5 recording and never wrote down straddled, and I'm -- if 6 there's a word that sticks out in my mind I will write it
7 down. And that -- he did not say that she straddled him
8 at any point, so I think it's a difference of opinion
9 about the language that was being using, and there I'm not 10 saying that they're trying to mislead, but I want to say 11 that the language that he used was she jumped on him and 12 as soon as the beh -- you know, as soon as these things 13 happened he tried to get away from it, so it's not like he 14 was trying to engage with this young girl at that time 15 when -- in 2009. He was trying to get away and she 16 grabbed at his pants and she may have touched his penis 17 when he was trying to get away. He's not saying that he 18 was engaging with her in this behavior. So I just want to 19 point out that that's also a distinction.

20 But I think that in the brief Mr. Oatmen points 21 out all of the factors that Watkins indicates is 22 important. Furthermore, Watkins does say that the prior 23 act here is not admissible under 768.27(A), so the 24 propensity inference weighs against admissibility as 25 indicated in Watkins. It's on page 6 of our brief. So I

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 think that all of the Watkins favor weigh heavily against 2 admissibility under these circumstances, and I think that 3 it -- there's some inference being presented by the People 4 that the 402 and 403 don't apply when you're trying to 5 admit evidence under 768.27 and I think that that is a 6 mischaracterization. We would have heard news if MR -- if 7 Michigan Rules of Evidence 403 does not apply to evidence 8 admitted under 768.27. It still has to go through the 9 relevancy test and, furthermore, it can't be more 10 prejudicial than probative. Based on the nature of the 11 statement, I think that the potential for the jury to 12 convict my client just based on that statement, even 13 though this victim has a history of lying and has a number 14 of credibility issues, I think that that prejudicial --

15 MS. JOHNSON: I object to that. That's not 16 evidence before the Court in this hearing, the victim's 17 credibility.

18 THE COURT: What's that? What did you say that I 19 didn't --

20 MS. BAKER: I said this victim has some issues
21 with her credibility, your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Oh, okay. Well, I agree.

23 MS. BAKER: But I think that there is a high 24 chance --

25 THE COURT: Wait a minute. I want to make sure

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 the record's clear. I don't agree that she has issues
2 with credibility. I agree with your objection. Okay, go 3 ahead.

4 MS. BAKER: That there -- with the admission of 5 the statement the prejudicial value -- or prejudicial
6 nature of it is so high that it would eliminate the Court 7 -- or the jury from considering the facts as presented to 8 them during the trial, so I'd ask that the Court exclude 9 that statement from being presented to them.

10 THE COURT: All right. Well, as I always have to 11 go through in the 404(B) issue, whenever you contend that 12 it's not relevant to any issue in the case, what is the 13 defense, just a general denial, it didn't happen?

14 MS. BAKER: Yes. He denies that it happened,
15 your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Okay. So it's a general denial. All 17 right. Go ahead, Ms. Johnson.

18 MS. JOHNSON: Your Honor, we did file a 404(B) 19 and 768 notice. However, that's not the crux of my 20 argument before the Court today.

21 THE COURT: I understand.

22 MS. JOHNSON: This is admissible as a statement
23 by a party opponent and as relevant evidence. The only 24 way that relevant evidence is ever curbed by the statute 25 is under 403 when it's more probati -- when this probative

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 value is substantially outweighed by the potential 2 prejudice. This is clearly relevant. It's relevant to 3 his motive. This is by the Defendant's own statement to 4 the police he sees it as very similar to the act that has 5 been charged against him. We're talking about -- and I do 6 want to correct the timeline that we've been talking 7 about. The polygraph and this statement was taken in 8 November of 2013, which would mean that this act that the 9 Defendant talks about was sometime between -- around 10 November 2009 and the crime that we're alleging in the 11 2011-2012 school years, so it could have been less than 12 two years between the time the Defendant --

13 THE COURT: So it was somewhere between two and 14 three years?

15 MS. JOHNSON: Two and three, yes.

16 THE COURT: Yeah. Okay. Do you agree with that, 17 Ms. Baker?

18 MS. BAKER: In a general sense. I would say it's 19 more like three years.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Well, between two and three.
21 Okay. I'm gonna -- all right, go ahead.

22 MS. JOHNSON: It goes -- it's relevant because it 23 goes directly to his motive and state of mind. Motive is 24 defined as case law by an inducement for doing some act, 25 something that gives birth to the purpose, and what we

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 have here is a statement that his daughter was on him,
2 bouncing up and down on him, rubbing her genitalia on him, 3 her breasts became exposed and he got an erection, sexual 4 arousal. Now it may not have been the very next time he 5 saw her, but when he has his opportunity and had her alone
6 in his shop he acted on that. Not only the same victim 7 but that exact same sexual position is what he did, and in 8 the Watson case this court does allow in a picture of a 9 girl's behind that was the victim of a sex -- of a CSC 10 case and they specifically held that it was not coming in 11 to show that the defendant was a sexual pervert but his 12 exact sexual interest in that victim.

13 We have more than that here because we have not 14 just his sexual interest in our victim in this case, but 15 also his sexual interest in that exact sexual act in that 16 exact sexual position with her. The crime that the victim 17 has described in the preliminary exam and in the police 18 reports and that we intend to prove at trial is that the 19 Defendant pulled her down on top of him and penetrated her 20 from below, the same sexual position as he experienced 21 when she was bouncing on him and aroused him previously.

22 The defense in their motion, and I haven't heard 23 anything different today, indicate that the only -- that 24 the potential prejudice is a double inference of a 25 propensity, that he acted badly once and so he must have

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 done this again. I don't think any prosecutor could stand
2 up with a straight face and tell the jury he acted badly
3 once based on his statement alone. His statement is that 4 he became aroused and he pushed this girl off of him to 5 avoid that sexual contact, to avoid anything.

6 MS. BAKER: Your Honor, I have to object at this 7 point. I recognize this is her argument, but when I
8 listened to the recorded interview, Mr. Rainbolt does not 9 indicate that he became aroused during this incident.

10 MS. JOHNSON: I'm sorry. He had an erection 11 while she was bouncing on him.

12 MS. BAKER: He also indicated he had just woken 13 up.

14 MS. JOHNSON: Whether the arousal comes from his 15 sleep or from the victim I would say is a question for the 16 jury. But we can't introduce that as propensity evidence, 17 and I think it's a giant leap to say that a jury would 18 think it's propensity evidence. When the jury hears that, 19 they're going to hear only his version of the events 20 because that is the only version we have. The victim was 21 asked if there was anything sexual before. She had no way
22 of knowing that he saw that sexually. If she didn't know 23 he had an erection, she only knows of that experience that 24 she was trying to get him out of bed, she was bouncing 25 around, and he pushed her off and told her to stop.

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 That's not something that she necessarily knew about and 2 so it's not surprising that it didn't come out when she 3 was asked about prior sexual contact with him.

4 Again, it is relevant. The only way that 5 relevant evidence is kept out is for its potential 6 prejudicial value to substantially outweigh it, and there 7 is just no substantial danger of an unfair prejudice in 8 this case because the Defendant did exactly what he should 9 have done in pushing her off of him, and this goes 10 specifically to his motive, not to any propensity.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Anything further you want to 12 say, Ms. Baker?

13 MS. BAKER: Well, I just need to make a quick 14 statement. If he did the right thing back in 2009, then 15 he shouldn't -- it shouldn't be used in this particular 16 case to show that he did this particular offense. If 17 that's their theory, that he did the right thing back in 18 2009, then that is not relevant to his motive or intent in 19 this particular case because he did the right thing back 20 then.

21 THE COURT: Okay, thank you, ladies. I will 22 consider this matter and give you a written opinion.

23 MS. JOHNSON: Your Honor, while we're here, there
24 is a motion to add witnesses that was filed on May 28th
25 that was never heard by the Court. I did -- in the span

(Videotape, 09-29-14; 3:58:13)

1 of time where this has been adjourned I did have time to 2 do a memo to add witnesses; however, I failed to add all
3 of the witnesses, so I'm renewing my motion to add 4 Jennifer Houston and Timothy Houston as witnesses that was 5 filed on May 28th.

6 THE COURT: Okay. We're set for trial October --

7 MS. JOHNSON: A week from tomorrow.

8 THE COURT: A week from tomorrow, okay. Anything
9 you want to say about those witnesses, Ms. Baker?

10 MS. BAKER: Well, my notice shows Jennifer and 11 Timothy Houston on the August 1st, 2014 witness list.

12 MS. JOHNSON: Okay.

13 MS. BAKER: So I -- I'd --

14 THE COURT: So the motion is not necessary?

15 MS. JOHNSON: It's withdrawn then.

16 THE COURT: Okay. Okay, thank you, ladies.

17 (Court adjourned at 4:17:28.)
